

The Law and Economics Policy Initiative at SciencesPo, convened by Roberto Galbiati, Emeric Henry, Katja Langenbucher, Horatia Muir-Watt and Dina Waked, invites to its inaugural conference. The conference will cover some of the themes that will be at the heart of the research group's focus: New challenges in antitrust, the impact of rising inequality on traditional questions in law and economics, and the growing role of data in judicial decisions.

LEPI is happy to announce that Antoine Garapon, Lina Khan, Thomas Philippon, Thomas Piketty, Katharina Pistor, Maciej Szpunar and Luigi Zingales will be joining us (see detailed program below).

Date: June 16th and 17th 2020

Venue: Amphiteatre Simone Veil, Sciences Po

Registration : registration is free but mandatory.

Please contact maria.glazman@sciencespo.fr

June 16th 2020

12.30 Welcome lunch

13.15 Introduction to LEPI

13.30 - 16.30 "A new era in antitrust"

Luigi Zingales (Chicago Booth) Concentration and Policy

Lina Khan (Columbia Law School) Antitrust and Market Size

Thomas Philippon (NYU Stern) The Great Reversal

17.00 – 19.00

"Law and inequality"

Thomas Piketty (PSE) Capital and Ideology

Katharina Pistor (Columbia Law School) How the Law creates Wealth and Inequality

Cocktail

June 17th 2020

9.30 – 12.30

"New technologies"

Giacomo Calzolari (EUI) – Artificial Intelligence and Antitrust

Antoine Garapon (IHEJ) – Artificial Intelligence and Epistemological Change

Maciej Szpunar (GA/ECJ) and Guy Canivet (Former president of the Cour de Cassation and member of the Conseil Constitutionnel) - Concluding remarks

Lunch